Key words: Netiket, the development of technologies, improvement, social networks, mass-media

Today, in the era of rapidly developing information technologies, that is, the Internet has taken over the whole world, there is no way to use or use the same technical tools. The reason is that in the development of the human world, in the further expansion of the spiritual world, especially computer technology occupies a different place. That is why today is called the age of technology. This is certainly a happy situation, because we use the opportunities and do not waste our time studying or working.

If we look at today's requirements, the huge internet, which has become a global network, has found its place among mass media with its speed and limitlessness. On the banks of social networks working there, we are aware of the news happening in our country and around the world every hour. However, in the era of rapidly growing technology, we are on the same page with the good aspects of the Internet and social networks, as well as its negative impact on the spirituality of young people. Can we say that such young people are tired of the possibilities of the Internet and enter social networks only to get knowledge? Today, almost 90 percent of young people use mobile phones, and instead of carrying the books they need, those phone banks use e-books. This is one of the most important global problems today. So, can these e-books replace regular books? According to the information, the person who gets hold of the book gives an ecstatic pleasure, and every time we open the page, the person who reads the book gives a special spirit to the person. The reason is that the pleasure of reading a book is different.

A child who has read a lot of books will do well in lessons, they will master mathematics and grammar well.

Reading a book calms the nerves.

Just reading a book for 6 minutes stops the nervous tension.

A person who has studied a beautiful work of art is able to portray the inner feelings of others well in his life.

Reading improves brain activity.

Reading helps to fight against depression.

If you want to be up to date in a way,

If you want to follow in a road of Ayaziy,

If you want to stay in history in a day

Don't let go of the white book./B. B/

Recently, it is related to the Internet, and at the same time, one term began to be used in our language. This is called "igromania". "Igromania" is to enter and exit various things performed by computers. Compared to psychologists' reports, young people are quick to believe what they have seen and learned because their immunity against destructive ideas is not yet fully developed. In such a situation, we can not justify igromania, which has an adverse effect on the spirituality of young people. As there are good and bad aspects to everything in our daily life, it is better to use modern technology tools and the internet in their place and purposefully.

As the society develops, the changes in our society are updated. We all know that today the Internet is a social network that we all use. While some criticized this network, most supported it. With that said, the internet continues its development in the current era.

To put it bluntly, the Internet is the demand of today's times. All over the world, on the shores of this network, many tasks are carried out. In 2020, the disease of the coronavirus, which is considered a silent enemy, proved how important it is in our online Internet life, and at the same time, it has become a legend.

At first, no one realized that the virus would affect negative statistics worldwide. During the quarantine, daily life services such as leaving the house, going to work, visiting relatives, and even going to the store were temporarily suspended. Many people died because of this disease. However, it was during this period that the internet became the reason for our current situation to be stable.

Quarantine restrictions taught people to develop themselves, read books, learn things they don't know. Distance learning plays an important role for school pupils and students. The reason is that it helped the students to study and master their knowledge in their own time.

One of the most dangerous and sad cases of the use of social media, despite its positive and beneficial aspects, is the increasing popularity of various forums aimed at fanaticism among young people, which shows how big the problem is. Because peace is the greatest wealth.

"Jihad" gangs widely use internet sites, "Odnoklassniki", "Twitter" social networking sites, forums and gangs of various organizational forms, "You Tube" portal to attract new people to their ranks. Propagandists of these gangs spend a lot of time on the Internet, are temporarily unemployed, wish to earn money abroad, and are dissatisfied with the state of society.

Some young people from our country become victims of these gangs and go to the hotbeds of war like Syria and Iraq. In the end, they are throwing themselves into the bottomless pit. It would be appropriate if every parent and school team would work individually and perform control tasks responsibly so that they do not believe in fake reports and deceptions on such unnecessary sites.The Internet today is a repository of obituaries. However, the speed and ease of communication between users is not only a way to get knowledge from the Internet, but it is also a field of fraud. The virtual communication that has arisen due to the rapid development of the network creates a special language - the language of virtual communication. Many communication channels created on the network (privogeny), transparent forums and individual accounts are the main way of communication between young people. Over the years, a special language has been called "slang", that is, the language of Internet communication. There, users interact with each other. Every day it is rapidly entering our life.

Social networks have a negative impact on language communication and lead to a decrease in language literacy. In our opinion, the problem of the purity of our mother tongue is a very important issue today. The reason is that sometimes I don't pay full attention to language purity while using social networks. It is good for internet users to have such a situation. If we analyze the texts written by students on social networks, identify the mistakes made by young people, refer to slang dictionaries, the use of slang, various symbols (smileys) and graphic abbreviations in communication on social networks, this generalization is related to literacy. We will try to avoid negative effects.The peculiarity of communication on the Internet is that the Internet is not only a storehouse of various information, but a means of spiritual communication. At the moment, virtual communication still requires more time. This is not a case of blindness, because there is a cheap connection, and a wide range of access. Here, kilometers and time separating people are not important. Opponents of virtual communication argue that social networking destroys the level of communication and the culture of speaking. In visual communication, the word is realized in an intonation type, it conveys emotion and feelings. The received virtual communication is replaced by facial expressions, emoticons, emotions, intonation, symbols, icons and smileys. Over time, this can lead to bad consequences. If a person works at home and communicates with others only through Telegram or Instagram, meeting with people and meeting face-to-face is uncomfortable for him.

Users of communication channels have almost no auxiliary tools: speech tempo, emoticon expression, diction, signs and facial expressions. In this case, the reliability of the connection will be very low.

However, regardless of this, there are also advantages of internet connection. For example: Slang (chat language) allows you to communicate quickly. This is very important nowadays. Usually, he enters "VKontakte" and "Telegram Messenger" at the same time and communicates with the same number of people. Therefore, fast writing is a must. This ensures that language conversation is simple, convenient and fun.

Disadvantages of online communication: Under the influence of chat language, minors may write mistakes in important documents and notebooks of study subjects. We meet many foreign words in the speech of young people. Many of them use the translation and meaning without even knowing it.

Translation of words that are often used in social networks:

Sorry –sorry means apologize for something, Sps -thanks, Pliz (in English: please) -please, Ok – means agreement, Super - great, Yavs – I`m online, Kvs – who is online, Nzch — (Nezachto) Not at all, Tt – I do not have any news.

Talking on the Internet has a negative effect on the vocabulary and lexicon of teenagers. The reason is that children get used to speaking and writing incorrectly, and in the process of speaking only slangs orally and in social networks, the application becomes a habit in life as well. Or, without realizing it, they get used to speaking in a way that violates the culture and purity of the language.

Such situations are the most common, and it is the main duty of every person to pass on our native language to the next generation in a pure and clean state. For this, we should pay attention to the speaking culture of the people around us and help them to correct their mistakes in time.

To be honest, we cannot say with confidence that the Internet is directly useful for one hundred percent of people. Along with its benefits, it also has its downsides, of course. It is clear that if everyone uses it to their advantage and to achieve their goals, it will bear fruit. The reason is that we would follow the culture of using social networks.
