

VOCABULARY ASSESSMENT METHODS

Jizzakh Pedgogical University

Faculty of preschool education

Foreign language course in preschool and primary education

541-20 student of group

Rahimova Gulozoda

Shukurova Dinora

Annotation : In this article, modern approaches to the assessment of students' knowledge are presented. Essence and content as well as the basis of formative and summative assessment. The differences are stated.

Keywords: formative assessment, tests, quizzes, oral questions, diagnostic assessment, summative assessment.

Abstract: In this article, the essence and content of modern approaches to the assessment of student's knowledge, as well as the main differences in formative and summative evaluation, are described.

Keywords: formative evaluation, tests, quizzes, oral questions, diagnostic. Evaluation, summative evaluation.

INTRODUCTION

Today, there are changes in all areas of our society, the world. Rapid developments are underway to meet the standards. Including education. In the system as well. Family education system by the head of our state on December 24, 2021 Financial, Two historic decisions on granting independence in academic and organizational management. Signed. This, in turn, is new in the management of family educational institutions Requires a system-based approach. Assessment is an important part of the educational process. Quality of education and To the educational process of constantly monitoring the students' knowledge levels. Is the basis for introducing important news. Based on the new system today Different forms of assessment have been developed and are being presented to the educational process. One of these is formative assessment. How to increase vocabulary? The beauty and variety of speech is a powerful weapon. We are able to influence, control and direct through speech. Being able to speak clearly and use unusual expressions always impresses people. Lexicon types Vocabulary stock is divided into the following groups. Active communication in everyday life. It includes written and spoken speech. Passive – understandable terms used in everyday dialogues that people are familiar with. A person uses them only when necessary. In some cases, it is necessary to try to remember the meaning of the words in the passive lexicon. External – words whose meaning is not familiar. For example, technical words. How to expand the lexicon? Make up a story with noun phrases. In this case, the story should have meaning and logical development. This method can also be applied to verbs and adjectives. Alphabet letters. A chain of consecutive words that make up a story. Each subsequent word is the next letter in the alphabet. One letter. Come up with a text in which each word starts with a single letter. Adjacent words are related in meaning. There is no general text. So, you can be a little distracted from work and busy while waiting. Such games will be interesting for children. What other activities can increase vocabulary? Books. Of course, books sharpen the mind, develop thinking and vocabulary. By reading different books, you will remember new terms and peculiarities of speech. It is important to read different literature. Then the result will be noticeable. Communicate with people from different fields. The most effective way to learn something is practice. Expanding the vocabulary through communication, using and mastering new forms of speech is faster. Most of the time we communicate with people who are familiar to us. These are family, friends and colleagues. If you go beyond this dialogue, you will discover many new things for yourself. Not only in terms of vocabulary. Communicate with artists, technicians, and niche professionals. Currently, the Internet space allows you to make new acquaintances. Visit new locations, exhibitions, demonstrations and conferences. All this brings new acquaintances and expands the circle of communication. Audio books. Listening to books in audio form is an excellent option for expanding vocabulary. It is said that knowledge comes to us through the ears. It is through this channel that we absorb more information. It is also useful to listen to lectures and speeches on various topics.

CONCLUSION

The main difference between these two assessment procedures is that the formative. While assessment is a type of learning process, summative assessment is an evaluation process. Balanced assessment builds on both, the next steps for teachers. Necessary information about and according to the content standard of students. Provides measurement of knowledge. If we look at the educational system of developed countries, for example Great. In Britain, staff (teachers) are taught by adults (leaders) and. Learning about good practice in relation to educational assessment in educational settings. And Education, Evaluation and Quality Assurance for helping to develop.(TAQA) award is available. So assessment is for the development of education.Is the main process. Especially formative assessment is about the quality of education Provides accurate information.

LIST OF LEITERATURE USER:

- 1 "Language assessment . Principles and classroom practices." H.Douglas Brown 2023
- 2 "Vocabulary in language teaching" Batia Laufer, Cambridge University 20
- 3 "Assessting Vocabulary" John Read 2000 Cambridge University 320

