Together with the students, he prepares sports fields for competitions, weapons, ammunition, means of protection against weapons of mass destruction, grenades and medical supplies. If something is missing to hold competitions, the head of primary training before the Convocation should try to find it through the head of economic affairs or the director of the educational institution.

The venue for the celebration will be prepared, a pulpit will be placed, and places will be allocated for the invited guests. The venue of the celebration should be decorated with colorful flags, slogans on the theme of military patriotism and a healthy generation, visual aids that tell the story of the activities of the educational institution. Special, beautifully decorated invitations are prepared for those invited to the celebration, and these invitations are handed over to the invitees by the active students of the university.

Before the convocation, the head of primary training should try to involve the orchestra in the festive celebrations through the director of the educational institution. If the university has its own orchestra, then the orchestra is also involved in the preparatory work according to the plan. The participation of the orchestra in the military sports festival is of great importance. Because marching to the sound of the orchestra, singing songs on the military-patriotic theme performed by the orchestra, add a special charm to the holiday celebrations, and give the participants and participants of the holiday a good mood and feelings of joy. Before the call, the leader of the initial training should definitely take this into account.

- The jury selects the judges and prepares them. He informs them about the conditions and rules of the competition and instructs them to judge the competitions in a fair manner.

- Develops rules for each type of competition and conveys them to the students of each class through class leaders. Provides close support to students in the formation of teams, prepares a schedule of training sessions, and monitors its implementation.

- Gives instructions to the photographer of the country of knowledge or the invited photographer on how to film the festivities.

- 10-15 days before the holiday, it is decided to conduct exercises on the scale of the entire university.

- 2-3 days before the holiday, he conducts pre-holiday rehearsals with the participation of the orchestra. If the head of elementary preparation before the Convocation can choose good assistant students and convince them that the holiday celebrations should be held at a high level, as well as correctly direct the actions, interests and aspirations of the students. if he knows, all issues related to preparation for the holiday can be successfully solved. Of course, at this point, it is necessary to mention about the class leaders and other persons who are responsible for the holiday events. Before the call-up, the task of the head of initial training is first of all to remind these people of what their duties are and to get them to fulfill these duties seriously.   - The final part of the military-sports holiday;
  - Awarding the winners;
  - Lowering of the holiday flag by the best athletes of the country of knowledge;
  - Inspections of artistic amateur circles;

The people of Uzbekistan are working valiantly to build a great state and a legal society. Our daily task is to involve young people in the process of these constructions, to instill in their minds that the great future of Uzbekistan is in the hands of young people, to nurture patriotic feelings in them during daily activities and various events.

Various events held in the course of military-patriotic and mass-defense work play an important role in terms of their educational value. These events will be held at a high level and their educational value will be further increased by carefully planned military-patriotic and mass-defense work, developed material and technical base of the educational institution, and the serious performance of these tasks by the head of CHQBT, as well as the pedagogical team.
