The 21st century is the century of development, progress and innovative technologies.

Now in every field of innovative technologies and modern science tools are being used. Therefore, in schools, it is necessary to use modern and innovative tools, methods, and various interactive games and practical exercises in the classroom system for students to learn English in depth and to improve their language skills.

The introduction of innovative technologies into the educational process, teaching foreign languages improvement of educational content and methods based on needs is inextricably linked. The main goal of teaching foreign languages is to form and develop the communicative culture of schoolchildren, foreign Azamat Akbarov, a professor and applied linguist, says that learning a foreign language is more important than having a "good impression" biography or a travel tool. It makes students smarter, faster decision makers and even better conversational skills increases. Psychological research also shows the benefits of learning and speaking foreign languages.

The task of the teacher is to create conditions for each student, to choose teaching methods that allow each student to demonstrate his activity and creative ability. In the 21st century, the main task of modern English language teaching is not only to provide extensive information, but also to provide students with modern methods, new information technologies and the Internet in order to increase their interest and passion for learning English.

teaching using modern pedagogical technologies such as resources.

Since speech is a means of communication, learning it is the general practical goal of educationenters. However, today schoolchildren have a problem with speech in learning foreign languages. This is Professor Azamat Akbarov's opinion on this situationmeans:" Psychologists and educationalists admit that only if students are taught to overcome enough difficulties in the educational process, their thinking can be developed quickly.

Therefore, it is appropriate to use methods based on speech development in order to solve problems related to speech in students.

In schools, the use of the Harold Palmer method to improve students' language skills and solve their problems is described. The goal of this method is to master the English language freely, that is, to understand speech by listening, acquisition of speaking, reading and writing skills is considered Unfortunately, some of the language teaching methods used today are nothing more than a waste of students' time. I would like language teachers to pay more attention to conversational skills and competences when teaching a foreign language, rather than reading literature and analyzing grammar rules in detail. These classes focus on reading and writing, with little or no consistent focus on speaking and listening comprehension.

not given. From the moment the student starts learning the language, it is very important to speak continuously important. Therefore, it is necessary to give schoolchildren only new information during the lesson.

Solving problems and achieving high results, of course, in language learning

Identifying the difficulties is good. In the introduction of topics to the school program for the development of speech in students, "the student and his work should be done based on methodological criteria.

Each of the innovative methods mentioned above has its own advantages. In all such methods, cooperation between the teacher and the student, the active action of the student in the educational process is taken into account. The use of modern technologies in teaching English is also interesting for students causes an increase in their work and activities.

During the lesson, the teacher comes from the class system of the students. In this case, he should send them interesting and educational videos in English, 3 or 5 minutes long. If the duration is long, it may bore some students or some of them may not understand the words.

For this reason, it is desirable that the duration of the videos be short. It is possible to draw students' attention to language learning by showing videos to students in class. Effective results can be achieved by posting new topics, information, grammar rules, interesting information, poetry, vocabulary or videos about historical and famous people. In particular, students develop skills such as listening, listening comprehension, memorization, and speaking.

In conclusion, it should be said that in the 21st century, as the era itself demands innovations and renewal, it is not wrong to say that teaching the young generation through new, modern methods is also a demand of the era.

let's share To them, so that students and young people can become mature staff in the future already by helping them scientifically, spiritually and psychologically support is necessary. Developing the language skills of schoolchildren now will give very successful results in the future.

Using the aforementioned methods, innovative methods and modern information technologies to increase their interest in language learning, to attract them to language learning, to solve their problems, to think, to show their talents, and to improve their reading, speaking, listening comprehension and helps to develop skills such as writing and achieve great results.

As a result of using innovative methods, students' logical thinking skills develop, their speech becomes fluent, and they can answer quickly and correctly.

In conclusion, it should be said that in the 21st century, as the era itself demands innovations and renewal, it is not wrong to say that teaching the young generation through new, modern methods is also a demand of the era.

let's share To them, so that students and young people can become mature staff in the future already by helping them scientifically, spiritually and psychologically support is necessary.
